Supporting Women to be Extraordinary Leaders

The Spirit of Leadership and You

Leaders are now searching for more meaning in their professional and personal lives. It goes much deeper than enhancing work skills, career advancement, managing time or trying to find a balance between family and work.

The Spirit of Leadership conference is designed for senior female leaders, senior executives, emerging leaders and individuals who seek to explore a deeper purpose and want to know the true values that underlie behaviour in a business environment

What you can expect

Presented by Qualia Learning Network, this innovative conference brings together a diverse range of outstanding presenters who are senior business leaders, artists, authors, adventurers, visionaries and entrepreneurs who understand the power of developing our deeper intelligence, and the rewards of integrating it into our way of being. They will help you reinforce and align your personal and professional values and ethics and in doing so bring about greater outcomes in your professional and personal world.

It is imperative to attract, develop, promote and retain female leaders. This allows organisations to capitalise on the fundamental position of women in today's business environment, to build sustainable businesses that perform holistically.

Deeper Intelligence - IQ EQ SQ - how it works for you

The Spirit of Leadership conference introduces female leaders, executives and emerging leaders to the philosophy that understanding your deeper intelligence can positively influence your happiness, contentment and self-esteem. It is from knowing the transformative power of your deeper intelligence that you are able to deliver your best, in your workplace and all other aspects of your lives.

Intellectual intelligence IQ (what I think) and emotional intelligence EQ (what I feel) are necessary to analyse your present situation and know how to behave appropriately within it. Intelligence of the spirit SQ (who I am) underpins intellectual and emotional intelligence and is at the heart of everything you are. It allows you to hope, dream and visualise and to connect to your greater purpose. It is about self-knowing.

SQ requires that you stand open to experience, that you use your ability to see life and others afresh. It requires that you cease to seek comfort in just what you know and constantly explore and learn what you do not know. It requires that you live in the question rather than the answer.

The powerful combination of IQ, EQ and SQ provides a greater intelligence and opens the door to understanding the meaning of the spirit of leadership

"...To lead with authenticity, a leader needs to be very comfortable with who they are as a person." Richard Strasser, Harvard Alumni Association

Discovering and maintaining your legitimacy to lead yourself and others

Appreciating and understanding the concept of deeper intelligence allows you to exist in the space of being a leader where you:

- pursue your true purpose with passion because legitimate leaders understand themselves and how they influence others
- lead with compassion for the people you service and have empathy for the people you work with
- have the courage to make difficult decisions
- establish enduring relationships based on openness and honesty
- demonstrate self-discipline by accepting full responsibility for outcomes and holding the space for others to be safely accountable for their performance
- build sustainable and creative organisations which impact positively on the bottom line

Expect the unexpected

This is a leadership Conference with a difference. It is a fun, thought provoking, deeply reflective experience. You will emerge as a more powerful observer of your way of being with more energy, more clarity and a greater commitment to positively influence those you lead.

You will share this intellectual, experiential and intuitive experience with a network of other exceptional businesswomen and community leaders in a stimulating environment where you can form relationships, build alliances, share insights and enjoy the experience together.

The conference includes interactive discussions in small groups and the room at large. It provides the opportunity for exploration at a personal level; asking yourself what does this mean to me? It provides the space to share insights, compare experiences and discuss ways to try out new ideas.

Guest Speakers

Tjanara Goreng Goreng

By any measure, Tjanara is a remarkable woman whose influence extends to every continent on the Planet. Her roles include diplomat, academic, artist, writer, musician, dancer, traditional healer and 'songwoman'. She lectures widely on 'systems change' in the self, groups, families, and in government and corporate bureaucracies. Tjanara is a courageous and inspirational leader. She is a masterful storyteller, able to convey poignant messages about life and leadership through the use of humour, story and her many creative gifts. She will touch your heart, make you laugh and leave an indelible impression on the soul.

Julie Birtles

Inspired by our individual ability to create and shape the life we want, Julie mentors visionaries and leaders who are deeply committed to creating a better world. She is recognised for her mastery in developing executive awareness and understanding of the systemic forces shaping corporations and society. She fosters new ways of thinking, leading and relating and her clarity supports people to identify their visions and to realise their uniqueness at this time of profound change.

Christine Mahoney

For the past 25 years Christine has synthesised and merged her background in the performing arts with her skills in training, consultancy and organisational development.

Designing and facilitating boutique workshops, Christine works on specific needs associated with people development, and the resolution of human issues within the workplace. Her focus has been on the challenges change brings during times of transition, and the need to empower individuals and teams to take initiative and lead. Christine's corporate work has also included clients experiencing mergers, re-structuring and re-location where she diagnoses 'hot spots' and follows up with recommendations and practical solutions. Christine uses her twenty-five years as a film, TV and stage actor to bring a unique and sometimes unorthodox dimension to her highly entertaining and stimulating interactive presentations.

Denni Francisco

Through her roles as an engaging facilitator, mentor, coach and speaker, Denni has explored a different way of being for executives who wish to 'show up,' be present in every aspect of their life, find meaning and identify their legacy.

As Founder of Qualia Learning Network, she is committed to assisting people achieve higher levels of performance with increased personal stress resilience through personal coaching and leadership programs that have been implemented by Federal and State Governments, and national and multinational organizations in Australia and the Middle East. The design of the Spirit of Leadership Conference is based in part on five years of Denni facilitating hundreds of corporate executives through the Superworking Leadership Program: observing and listening to what executives, especially women, are looking for; the challenges they face, the things that frustrate them, concern them, disappoint them, inspire them and call them to action.

The outstanding speakers and presenters chosen for this event, encompass Denni's vision for what the future holds for women leaders who want to explore their talents and utilise them in every aspect of their lives in these challenging but opportunistic times.

Rachael Robertson

Twelve months in one the world's highest, driest, coldest and windiest places on earth with total strangers gave Rachael a truly unique leadership experience.

After managing a highly complex operation with the added challenge of nine months in total isolation and extreme risk to life, Rachael's presentation will focus on the lessons she learnt from her most challenging leadership role to date.

Although Antarctica is dedicated to international peace and science, having dealt with everything from plane crashes to negotiating a diplomatic settlement in the bacon wars, Rachael's conclusion is that life down South isn't always peace and harmony – just like life in general.

Rachael's presentation takes us on an amazing journey to Australia's Antarctic Research Station and in doing so highlights the benefits of leading with a greater intelligence.

Carmen Warrington

Using her foundation in acting, music and the study of meditation, Carmen shares her unique approach to a stressless life to audiences throughout the world and to millions through a series of CD's guiding people into meditation states with her soothing voice and well-chosen words.

A meditator for over twenty five years, Carmen sees her simple and practical approach as opening the door to stress relief, self discovery and creativity. With her long-time musical collaborator David Jones she performs in a variety of musical contexts. She and David developed their sacred sound work, offering 'soundbaths' and Sounds of Peace concerts. She is also a best-selling author of two inspirational gift books.
